Brand New Book. Excerpt from The Mountains of California, Vol. 2 Minutes to an hour or two. One soon becomes so accustomed to see them that the noon sky seems empty and abandoned without them, as if Nature were forgetting something. When the glorious pearl and alabaster clouds of these noonday storms are being built I never give attention to anything else. No mountain or mountain range, however divinely clothed with light, has a more enduring charm than those ? eeting mountains of the Sky ?oating foun tains bearing water for every well, the angels of the streams and lakes; brooding in the deep azure, or sweeping softly along the ground over ridge and dome, over meadow, over forest, over garden and grove; lingering with cooling Shad ows, refreshing every ?ower, and soothing rugged rock brows with a gentleness of touch and gesture wholly divine.
