Excerpt from An Address on Music, Delivered Before the Singing Society of the Second Baptist Church in Boston, on the Evening of the 7th April, 1814 The occasion upon which we are assembled is truly interesting. It is to cherish in our bosoms a desire for improvement in the pleasing and important art of music. The performances which have already been exhibited have afforded us pleasure, and engaged our attention. Our minds are now naturally left to seek relief by pursuing a different train of thought.
