By Elizabeth Sara Sheppard

Forgotten Books. Paperback. Condition: New. 226 pages. Dimensions: 9.0in. x 6.0in. x 0.5in. Excerpt from Rumor: It was a mid-August evening, warm and cloudless, and very dusty on a certain high road in England, along whose foot-path were pressing two travellers, a woman and a youth. The way was monotonously bounded on one side by a long wall, enclosing shrubberies pertaining to a retired manufacturer, who had found it very easy to plant trees, but impossible to force from them prematurely the solemn splendors of profound anaestral shades. Lamps at regular distances showed the road onwards straight and unwinding within the sight, and the view across the road, by daylight a breadth of pasture, deep green or clover-flush, now seemed a purple flat, over which the soft wind wandered, each breath heaving with stolen fragrances, or laden still more heavily with the distant thunder of the tram, and the diminished, wailful shriek of its guardian monster. The wayfarers must have been weary, for before they reached the angle of the wall, they both stopped, and the woman sat down to rest on the bank, which, spotted with scanty grass, half choked with dust, sloped to the dustier road. She said some words...
