Not illustrated. 1889 Excerpt: . . . discomfort being the necessity of fording the ice-cold and very swift water several times en route. Spring travel. In the early summer, when the valleys on both sides of the summit are deeply filled with hard snow for a number of miles, the Indians secure a less abrupt grade (particularly on the south slope) by travelling on the snow and altogether avoiding the rough sides of the valley. This was the state of the pass when Mr. Ogilvie made his way inland over it, in June. His greatest difficulty was found in connection with the Indians, who are untrustworthy and extortionate to a degree. He and his men were in consequence obliged to pack over a great part of their stuff themselves, and in so doing most of the party became snowblind. He had with him two Peterborough boats, intended for use in his survey, and...
