Createspace Independent Publishing Platform, United States, 2012. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: Russian . Brand New Book  Print on Demand . The book is a continuation of research completed in Numeric field. Introduction into theory functions of complex spatial variable. The concept of a numeric field, developed on the algebra of the laws of the real and complex numbers, provided the basis for developing the concept of coordinate axes of physical reality. The complex space changes the geometric representation of a material point, line, surface, and so on. The line is the epsilon tunnel in space. The point being the intersection of the lines becomes a spatial volume (in the simplest representation it is a sphere). A beam of light is the motion of matter in the epsilon tunnel at the speed of light.
