Excerpt from Proceedings at the Dedication of the New Building, Corner of Day and Perkins Streets, Roxbury: Tuesday, April 19, 1887 The managers of the Perkins Institution at South Boston long ago learned that the system of education of the blind, with all the progress and improvement it had constantly been making, was not yet complete. An essential element was lacking at its very base. The link necessary to attach its chain to a solid foundation was missing. For reasons relating partly to the want of room, but chiefly to the undesirableness of congregating or herding promiscuously together under the same roof little sightless children and older boys and girls, no satisfactory provision could be made for the instruction and training of the former, no light could be procured to illumine their pathway and reveal to them the many things that, without its help, must lie hidden in darkness. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books. Find more at This book is a reproduction of an important historical work. Forgotten Books uses state-of-the-art technology to digitally reconstruct the work, preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy.
