I aint never knowed no one like him, continued the station-agent reflectively. He made us all look like monkeys, but he was good to us. Ever see a genuine poet, sir Years ago one was pointed out to me, replied Briggs. Was yours smooth shaved, with large, fat, white fingers inquired the station-agent. If I remember correctly, he was thin, said Briggs, sitting down on his suit-case and gazing apprehensively around at the landscape. There was nothing to see but low, forbidding mountains, and forests, and a railroad track curving into a tunnel. The station-agent shoved his hairy hands into the pockets of his overalls, jingled an unseen bunch of keys, and chewed a dry grass stem, ruminating the while in an undertone: This poet come here five years ago with all them kids, an the fust thing he done was to dress up his girls in boys pants. Then he went an built a humpy sort o house out of stones and boulders. Then he went to work an wrote pieces for the papers about jay-birds an woodchucks an...
