Excerpt from Music of the North American Indians: Thesis for the Degree of Bachelor of Music in Music, School of Music, University of Illinois, 1917 The Indians as a people are truthful and brave, devont in peace and in war. They are conscious of a power greater than themselves which fills their whole beings. They look upon all nature with reverence. They are at all times prayerful, and this characteristic is constantly expressed in symbol and ceremony. The ceremonial smoking of tobacco symbolizes the breath of life; the scattering of holy corn pollen symbolizes fruitfulness and productiveness. Prayer is conveyed 1; the designs of their fabrics, beadwork, and pottery, in dance, ceremony and song. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
